Russing Wards of Indigention. One of the excakers at a Demogratic meeting the other day, and one that the Plain Desler puffs up, was Judge Van R. Humpbrey, of Akron. The Akron Beacon. publishes a document addressed to this Judge Van R. Humphrey that will tingle in his cars long years hence, if his life is spared, and one that will be a lasting disgrace to his memory. It is signed by one hundred and twenty-nine men, members of the 116th Ohio volunteers, and sets forth that the Judge, when recruiting was going on for the above regiment, promised that the fi milies of those who would go should be cared for, and their wants supplied. And yet, they say : "Scarcely were we beyond our district, ere you simmeleesly neglected those you promised to protect, descried your princi-ples, abandoned the position you eccapied, and went over to the support of the politi cal Arneld, whose proudest boast is that J. B. COBB & CO. he has 'never spoken a word or voted a cent' to sustain the Government in its death struggle. You proved that all your professions of regard for the volunteers were false, by deserting them and giving your support to a man whose record is blackened by a an attempt to decrease the small pay of the soldier.

They then logically enquire : "If then we are treated thus by you what are we to expect from those who are associated with you in your treachery to the Government, and its gallant soldiers? We appeal to our friends to mark this apostate, and visit upon him, and the convicted representative of the principle he advoeates, the righteous scorn and just indignation due to infamous treachery.

Is it thus th t the scorp and indignation of the soldiers against the peace men finds vent. These men have fathers, mothers, brothers. Will any of their loved and loving relatives, whose hearts are bound up in the absent patriots, dore insult them by supporting a man or set of men that are thus convicted of being the enemies of the

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29, 1868. EDITORS LEADER: The recent shameless attempt of certain Copperhead politisians to make the Army of the Poteman the medium of bringing Gen. McCfellan prominently before the country as a candidate for the Presidency, is meeting the fate it so richly deserves. The army repudiates the movement with singular onanimity. Many of the regiments have held meetings, and denounced it with great soverity. And the enterprise falls dead, and is a damage to that General who has never uttered one word to indicate to his country that he is In sympathy with its struggle for life. Practically the army is abolitionized. It realises that slavery is the cause of the war, that slavery sustains the war, and that the end of slavery will be the end of the war.
